

Anglesey Abbey, Gardens & Lode Mill

Wednesday 27th May

Anglesey Abbey, Gardens and Lode Mill is a great day out. The National Trust property is a Jacobean style house with specially designed gardens and a working Watermill. A passion for tradition and impressing guests inspired Lord Fairhaven to transform what was a run down country house into the 1030's luxury and opulence it still withholds today. Along with the seasonally designed gardens with their bright vibrant colours and lovely sweet scents it is one of natures simple pleasures.

Anglesey Abbey House has Redwoods Restaurant where you can get a tasty lunch or for a treat have an National trust inspired cream tea.
